THE PRESENTATION OF THE LORD

Reflection by Rev. Leonard N. Peterson

Presentations are nothing new to us. They come with the calendar. In the sports world, we have presentation of the Super Bowl trophy. This leads to the Stanley Cup for ice hockey, and the World Series award for baseball. In between, we have the movie world's Oscars and TV's Emmys and Broadway's Tonys for the best in entertainment. There are tournaments galore, foot races, horse races, marathons and contests of all kinds, not to omit graduations at all academic levels, in which the various winners are each presented with an award of some kind to mark their achievement. We know about presentations.

Today, however, we come together to celebrate a presentation unique in world history: that coming of the Christ Child into the earthly house of His Father. Yet, as Luke describes it, there are echoes of the humility that we first observed at His birth. Mary and Joseph walk into the great spaces of the grand Temple in Jerusalem, dwarfed by its columns and surrounded by whispered voices. There are no trumpets sounding, no applause heard, and certainly no choirs of angels proclaiming the news. Instead, just two elderly people, humble themselves and holy as well, who come close to the saintly family with powerful witness of their own. Simeon is relieved and happy to have reached the time when he could see in Mary's arms the Messiah he had prayed to see before his death. Following that, he gave "permission" to the Lord as Promise Keeper, by his beautiful prayer which is now prayed nightly in the Liturgy of the Hours.

Beside him is Anna, smiling eyes behind the wrinkles of her eighty plus years and the wisdom gained from prayer and fasting, who also thanks God for this Child. Evidently, a group of onlookers had gathered, as Anna speaks to them of the Child as the one who would end their wait for the redemption of the city and nation.

The Holy Spirit, working through St. Luke, wanted us to know about this momentous but quiet Presentation largely lost to the wide world. What could be His reasons? I can think of four. First, to see the humble obedience of Mary and Joseph to the demands of their religion's laws. It seems logical to ask: Do you all know the six precepts of our Church? Do you respond with humble obedience?

Secondly, the Holy Spirit wants us to notice that God does indeed keep His promises. We may doubt Him at times, often because He has a different timetable from ours. Thirdly, there is an unspoken plea here to respect our elders. There are jokes about aging all over the place, a lot of them cute, but they become harmful when they lead to disregard for the wisdom and fidelity of age. Who better to reach out to youth and make a presentation of the value of hope?

Fourth and finally, there is that subtle reminder in this feast that prayer and fasting are just the right combination to help us attain that ever elusive holiness that lets us present ourselves to Christ our Lord. We have come this Sunday to a place of Christian worship because it has replaced the Temple of Jerusalem that is no more. Here in our parish church Jesus presents Himself to us in the miraculously transformed bread and wine. What do we present to Him? Think it over. Here's a follow up question for the week: If God now seems far away, who made the first move?

(Pope St. Gregory the Great)

Church Teaching: - A parish is a definite community of the Christian faithful established on a stable basis within a particular church; the pastoral care of the parish is entrusted to a pastor as its own shepherd under the authority of the diocesan bishop. It is the place where the faithful can be gathered together for the Sunday celebration of the Eucharist. The parish initiates the Christian people into the ordinary expression of the liturgical life: it gathers them together in this celebration; it teaches Christ's saving doctrine; it practices the charity of the Lord in good works and brotherly love: You cannot pray at home as at church, where there is a great multitude, where acclamations are cried out to God as from one great heart, and where there is something more: the union of minds, the accord of souls, the bond of charity, the prayers of the priests. (from the Catechism of the Catholic Church)

Catholic Relief Services

Ruar Leek village, where James Jongkuch Nyang's lives, suffers from harsh drought during South Sudan's dry season, leaving the earth parched and the local watering holes empty. When that happens, herders can be forced to drive their cattle for miles to access water and green pasture. But now, through a Catholic Relief Services-led initiative, James' community is working together to find a solution that will provide enough water to sustain their village through the dry months. James and his community are taking part in a food-for-assets program initiated through the Resilience and Food Security Program funded by the U.S. Agency for International Development's Office of Food for Peace. Since 2017, the program has emboldened communities to rehabilitate more than 4,570 miles of access roads, improve more than 195 classrooms and 40 health facilities, and create 287 water harvesting points with a combined capacity of more than 146 million gallons of water.
