THE HOLY FAMILY OF JESUS, MARY AND JOSEPH

Reflection by Rev. Leonard N. Peterson

Last October I was honored by an invitation to preach at a suburban Philadelphia parish for its annual Forty Hours Devotion. I was warmly received by the pastor and his staff. I soon learned from the parish secretary that she and others on the staff had all attended the parish school together. That coincidence added to their camaraderie at the lunch table. That same secretary had opined that for them "this town is the center of the universe."

That description of a certain beloved place could easily have applied at a unique time to a tiny, dusty village called Nazareth. It was God's choice for at least 30 years as "the center of the universe." We know why. But that very idea would have been laughable to Our Lord's contemporaries. For all its subsequent fame and ultimate glory, little Nazareth is not even mentioned in the whole Old Testament. As for that prophecy we read today, scholars tell us that St. Matthew was using a little creative imagination based on texts that only hinted at the town's name.

On this Holy Family Sunday, dare I take that heartfelt description of a town and apply it to our families? They are, or should be, the center of our little universes, should they not? I know that's a risky thing to say, seeing how so many families struggle these days. Just staying in touch is sometimes difficult. Staying together often develops into a challenge.

Yet all those obstacles are not insuperable. This is especially so when we meet them with good will and open minds, topped off by the attitude Jesus taught by word and example about our dealings with other residents of our planet. Add to that St. Paul's "recipe" for right relations in this weekend's Second Reading.

We know that even the Holy Family had its difficulties. There were those inconvenient travel orders given to St. Joseph which he met with his exemplary obedience. The burden was shared by a pregnant Blessed Mother. Later, both parents were faced with the fright and temporary helplessness of a lost child. Then came that boy Child's upsetting question: "Did you not know that I had to be about My Father's business?" To these we add the presumed early death of St. Joseph. Then there were the seven sorrows foretold by Simeon of Mary, leading to her place at the foot of the Cross.

One substantial help for all our families amid the present social upheaval in our Western culture is that attributed to the late Father Patrick Peyton: "The family that prays together stays together." It's not an outdated slogan. I even spotted that recently on a roadside billboard. I believe it's worth a try. To which I add that that's the real beauty of a family at Mass.

While we all work to heal our center, there's always humor to soften the edges of the effort. Here is a sampling of family-based humor from three past comedians. From the late Bob Hope: "I grew up with six brothers. That's how I learned to dance—waiting for the bathroom!" Buddy Hackett: "As a child, my family's menu consisted of two choices: take it or leave it." And finally Sam Levenson: "The reason grandparents and grandchildren get along so well is that they have a common enemy."

Today, take some time to enjoy being part of a family.

From the Pastor

Holy Family Sunday – Today is Holy Family Sunday. The Church designates this Sunday after Christmas as a time to remember and celebrate the Holy Family of Jesus, Joseph and Mary, and to recommit ourselves to the importance and sanctity of family life for each of us. Jesus came among us a member of a family. By assuming membership in a family Jesus has consecrated family life. It was in a family that the Lord learned the ways of God and grew in wisdom, age and grace. It is in our families that we learn the meaning of love, life, forgiveness and commitment, and grow in the ways of goodness and holiness.

Our Parish theme for this year is “Family: a Communion of Life and Love.” God himself is family of three divine person united as one God. Our families are called to imitate the life of the Trinity. We are separate and distinct persons in our families, and we are called to respect and honor the individuality of one another. But we are called to freely give the gift of ourselves to one another in love. Through this gift of self to one another we become united as one in a bond of family love and commitment, a bond that requires sacrifice but brings a contentment that runs deep and true.

In one of the Scripture stories in the life of Jesus, he cured a sick man, and the man wanted to travel with the Lord and his apostles, but the Lord told him to go home to his family and proclaim there the good things of God. Our first responsibility in serving others is in our homes. My mother was fond of telling us, “Charity begins at home.” How true! We renew our commitment today to make our families places of charity, forgiveness, peace and joy through our love for one another.

Wednesday, January 1 is a Holyday of Obligation – We will be observing the Sunday Mass schedule. There will be a 5:15 pm Mass on Tuesday evening, December 31, and Masses at 7:30, 10:00 and 11:30 am on Wednesday, January 1. We celebrate four significant events and matters on January 1: the Octave of the Nativity of Our Lord; the Solemnity of Mary, the Mother of God; the World Day of Prayer for Peace; and the beginning of a New Year. That is certainly much to celebrate but all four aspects of the day do fit nicely together and can be wrapped together as one.

The Octave of the Nativity of Our Lord celebrates the eighth day after the Birth of Christ. The two great feasts of Christmas and Easter honor such great events in the life of Christ, namely his birth and his rising from the dead respectively, that the Church designates an eight day period after each of these feasts as special days of giving glory and honor to God. January 1 is the eighth day after Christmas and is thus marked as the Octave of the Nativity. It is given special recognition because it is the culmination of the eight days of heightened celebration of the Birth of Jesus.

Because the Birth of Christ could not have happened without the gracious consent of Mary to God’s will for her to be his mother, we also honor Mary on this Octave as the Mother of God. Mary is the perfect example of someone who welcomed Christ into her heart and made him the center of everything. Honoring Mary focuses us on our role in celebrating Christmas, to allow Christ to come into our lives and to place our faith and trust in him as our Lord and Savior.

Christ came among us to bring us his peace. Peace cannot prevail in the world unless it reigns in each of our hearts. And the way to peace is through Christ. He comes as the Prince of Peace. Through union with him we come to know the love of God for us and experience a peace the world cannot give. We bring this gift of peace to our world through our prayers and actions. It is fitting that on the Octave we renew our desire to bring the gift of peace given to us by Jesus to all the world by our prayers, words, and actions.

January 1 is also the beginning of a New Year, a time to start fresh and begin anew, to contemplate the past and move forward with renewed life and strength. Jesus is the God of new beginnings. He always sets us free from past sins and mistakes to go forth and grow and mature in heart mind, body and soul. Having celebrated that Jesus is with us always to lead and strengthen us, we go forth into a New Year with confidence and resolve to unite ourselves to him and walk in his ways.

Holy Hour for Vocations on Sunday, January 5 – Prayer accomplishes much. On Sunday, January 5, there will be a Holy Hour for Vocations at St. Colman, Ardmore at 1:00 pm. Other Churches in the various regions of the Archdiocese will be celebrating Holy Hours as well. We are uniting our minds and hearts in asking the Lord to provide vocations to the priesthood and religious life in the service of his people. Those called to these vocations help to nurture our faith and lead us closer to the Lord. Come and join in prayer that those who are called may respond with generosity and devotion.

Trivia Night – Saturday, January 11, will be the Annual Trivia Night. It is sponsored by the Home and School Association but all are welcome to participate. It is always a fun night. Get some folks together and come out for an enjoyable evening.

Church Teaching: – The Holy Spirit prepared Mary by his grace. It was fitting that the mother of him in whom the whole fullness of deity dwells bodily should herself be full of grace. She was, by sheer grace, conceived without sin as the most humble of creatures, the most capable of welcoming the inexpressible gift of the Almighty. (from the Catechism of the Catholic Church)
